Mortally Shot, and Two Others Seriously Wounded.

Yesterday afternoon a bloody tragedy was enacted in Bullionville, ten miles from Pioche, resulting in the mortal wounding of two others. We have not been able to get the details as fully as we could wish, but will try to get all the particulars from a reliable source in time for our next. It seems that an amaiganator named Phil, Malloy, who had been engaged in one of the Bullionville quartz mills, was intexicated and inadiging in, threats against D. Turner, a bartender in Pony Williams' raloon. Turner tried to pacify him and get him to leave the saloon, when Malloy struck him over the head with his revolver, cutting an ugly gash. Shots were then exchanged, when Malloy received a bullet in the abdomen. Two ranchemen, who were witnessing the affair, were shot, and badly, but not dangerously, injured. Malloy was not expected to live when our informant left. It is said that he was, when not under the influence oil iquor, a quiet and much respected citizen.
